

COMMUNITY DIRECTOR UPDATE JULY 1, 2026

COMMUNITY NEWS

As spring ends and summer begins, you may see baby deer, or fawns, lying near bushes or in flower beds. Please do not disturb them. After giving birth, the mother often leaves the fawn alone briefly to avoid attracting predators, but she will return soon to care for it. Human contact may cause the mother to abandon the fawn. In the past, community members have reported seeing what they thought was a deceased fawn in a flower bed, when it was simply resting and waiting for its mother to return.

MAINTENANCE TIP

With summer, there is a chance for severe weather, high winds, thunderstorms, tornadoes. Please make sure you keep items picked up in your yards that could become a missile during high winds.
